ASK PUNISHMENT OF SLUSH FUND WITNESSES

SENATORS APPROVE PROSECUTION PLAN FOR INSULL CROWD

Opposed To Extending Reed Committee Power However

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Its legislative wheels braked by filibusters, the dying sixty-ninth congress today faced an outburst of politics on the senatorial stage.

Having established senatorial "slush funds" as a national issue, the Reed committee returned to the spotlight to demand that the senate prosecute three recalcitrant witnesses for contempt and then extend its authority throughout the coming recess of congress.

There was little or no opposition to the contempt proceedings, but a dozen senators protested against giving the committee power to make any further investigations.

The demand for prosecution of Samuel Insull, Chicago utility king, Daniel F. Schuyler, his attorney, and Thomas W. Cunningham, a Philadelphia court clerk, on contempt charges met with general approval in the senate. All three were given two different opportunities to answer questions but both times defied the senate's power to compel testimony on what the witnesses termed as subjects not under investigation. It was a foregone conclusion the senate would order all three prosecuted for contempt.

The case of Senator-Designate Frank L. Smith (R) of Illinois, meanwhile faced a pigeon-hole death in the senate elections committee. Senator Ernst (R) of Kentucky, chairman, told International News Service that no attempt would be made to bring the case back to the floor of the senate in the few remaining days. He said Smith's certificate to the six-year term, however, would be reported to the senate "as being in the regular order."

A separate report will be made at the same time on the credentials of Senator-Elect William S. Vare (R) of Pennsylvania. Ernest added, calling attention to the irregular manner in which the then Governor Gifford Pinchot "certified" the winner of Pennsylvania's senatorial campaign.

In asking the punishment of Insull, Schuyler and Cunningham, the Reed committee rendered an unanimous report, prepared by Senator Goff (R) of West Virginia. It declared it had "exceeded the limit of forbearance" in its treatment of Insull and Schuyler and had resorted to the contempt proceeding only "after every indulgence was exhausted."

REPORT DELANEY IS SERIOUSLY ILL

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 1.—Jimmy Delaney, well known St. Paul light heavyweight seriously ill here with blood poisoning was "holding his own" today but his condition is still very critical.

"Delaney's condition is still extremely critical, but he is making a game fight. There has been no change from that of last night," a bulletin issued by his physicians said.

The poisoning came from an infection which resulted from a fractured elbow bone, received in a fight in Cincinnati, two weeks ago.

An operation last Friday and another on Sunday, followed by a blood transfusion were of little avail in stopping the spread of the poison.

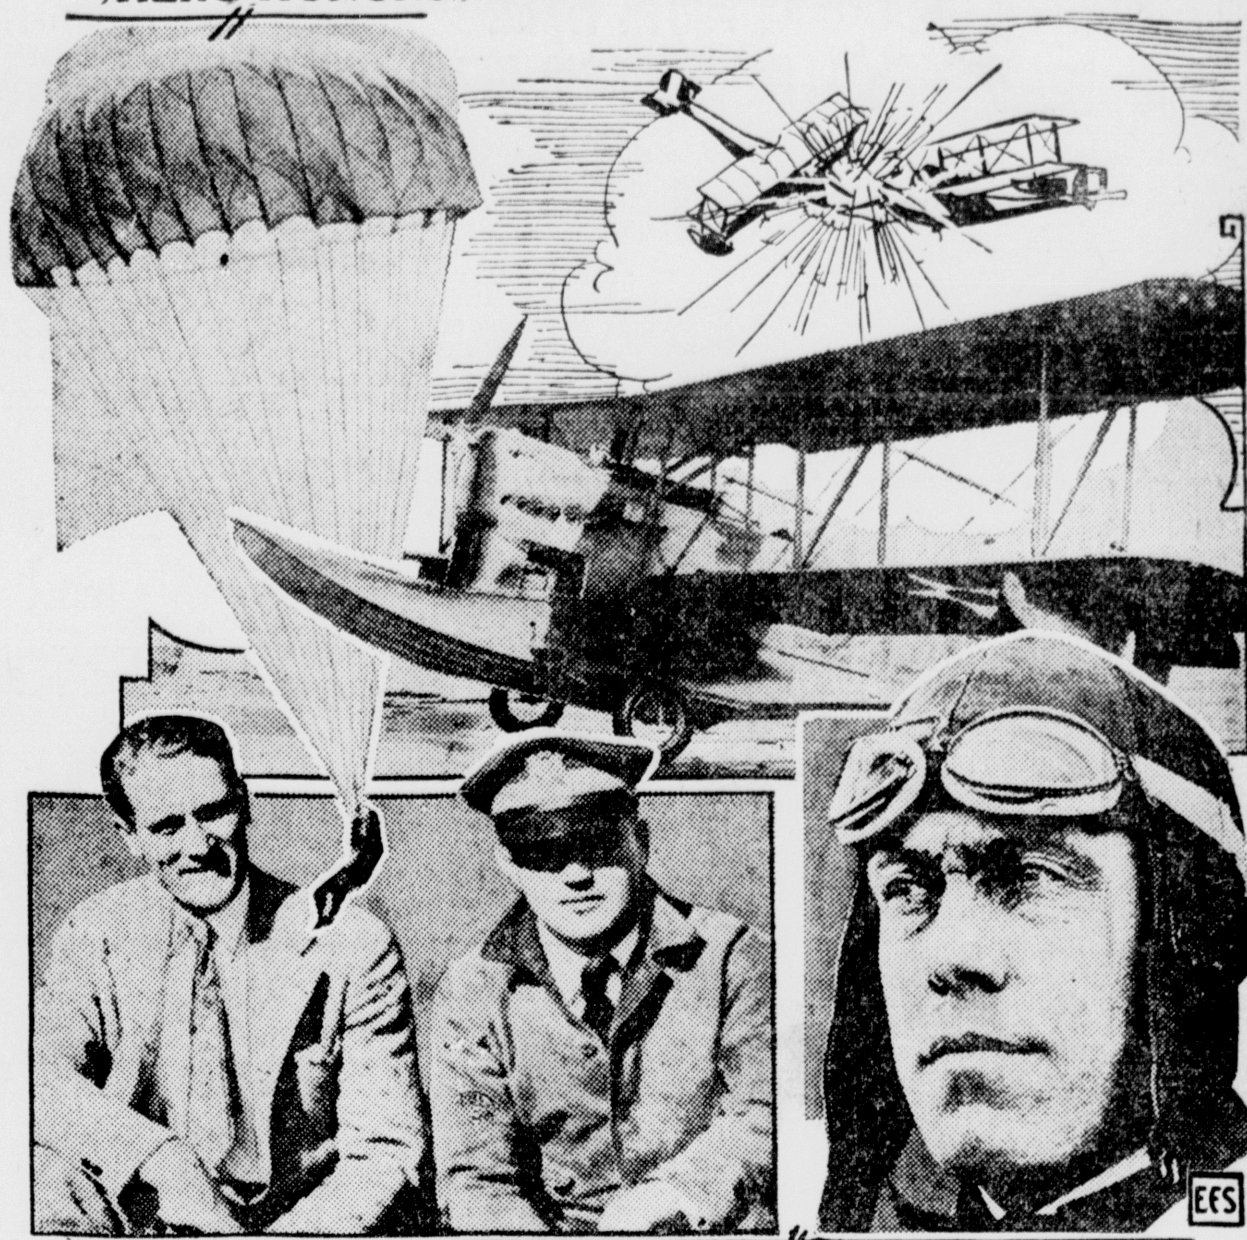

DRIVER KILLED AS TRAIN HITS TRUCK

DAYTON, O., March 1.—Ora Huls, a truck driver was killed late yesterday at West Carrollton, when a Big Four passenger train struck a gasoline truck he was driving. The engine was derailed. Firemen stood by and protected surrounding property while the tank of gasoline ignited by the crash, burned.

FIFTY-TWO MEN ENTOMBED BY GAS BLAST IN BRITISH MINE

EBBW VALE, England, March 1.—At least fifty-two men are entombed in the CWW mines, with all hope of their rescue abandoned.

Nearly a hundred other miners have been brought to the surface suffering from gas.

The tragedy was caused by the explosion of gas in one of the chambers of the mine, and the presence of "after damp" made it necessary to stop rescue work at 1:30 this afternoon.

The management of the CWW mines states that it fears the death list will total fifty-two.

The disaster at Bills-Thorp occurred when a staging upon which the men were at work sinking a new shaft collapsed and threw the men to the bottom of the shaft.

GOVERNOR DONAHEY SIGNS FOUR HOUSE BILLS; BECOME LAWS IN NINETY DAYS

COLUMBUS, O., March 1.—Governor Vic. Donahey, is was announced today, has attached his approving signature to the following four house bills:

By Rep. L. J. Abele, Cleveland, providing for performance of duties of probate judges by a judge of the court of insolvency in event of death of a probate judge.

By Rep. E. L. Johnson, Lake County, legalizing the assignment of mortgages; by Johnson, clarifying the law dealing with the release of mortgages, and, by Johnson, authorizing the waiver of priority of mortgages.

These measures are expected to be sent today to the office of Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and become effective as laws at the end of ninety days, unless subjected to referendum proceedings, which is not considered likely.

BEN RUDNER BEGINS IMPRISONMENT FOR MURDER OF MELLETT

Second Convicted Of Crime Arrives at Ohio Pen

COLUMBUS, O., March 1.—Big Ben Rudner, convicted for the second degree murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, and as a conspirator with Patrick Eugene McDermott, arrived at the Ohio penitentiary here at 6:30 a. m. today.

Rudner is the second of the Canton jail gang to be brought to the penitentiary for life imprisonment for the killing of the Canton publisher-crusher. The first to be convicted was Patrick Eugene McDermott, whose sentence is also life, but against whom a Stark County jury returned a verdict of first degree murder with a recommendation of mercy—the Nantyglo gunman's Christmas eve gift from the convicting jury.

Rudner is alleged to have been the "brains" of the vice ring and plotters who decreed the death of the young Canton newspaperman; McDermott, according to charges was one of the men whose gunfire killed Mellett last July.

Louis Mazer, also charged with first degree murder as a result of the killing is to be tried at Canton during March.

No Mystery In Director's Suicide; Temperament Blamed By Hollywood

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927
LOS ANGELES, Mar. 1.—Another tragedy has been credited to "artistic temperament" in the annals of Hollywood. And another sad entry has been made in the story of the sorrowful life of Renee Adoree, the little French actress, who made a nation cry as the heroine of "The Big Parade."

To those who understand Hollywood and its people the suicide of Lynn Reynolds, director, after a quarrel with his wife, the pretty Kathleen O'Connor, also of the films, is no mystery. They blame it upon the fiery temperaments of the pair, burdened with "nerves" sharpened in the studios.

Reynolds had just returned from the high Sierras where he was snowbound ten days with a company which included Miss Adoree. Nervous, slightly intoxicated, he flamed up when his wife, at a home-coming dinner, jokingly remarked, "I suppose you shared your lunch with Miss Adoree." Bitter words followed, the director knocked his wife to the floor, then jerked out a gun with which he blew out his brains.

Miss Adoree declares that her relations with Reynolds were merely friendly and mainly of a business nature. Authorities here decided that the director's death was purely a case of suicide, and dropped a proposed inquest.

The Reynolds were wed after a studio romance.

FORMER WARDEN IS PRISONER-INMATE OF ATLANTA PRISON

Sartain, Ex-sheriff At Columbus, Is Given Number

ATLANTA, March 1.—Former Warden Albert E. Sartain of Atlanta penitentiary was just inmate number 24207 today.

The one-time ruler of 3,000 convicts at the local federal prison became one of them as he started an eighteen-month term for conspiracy to accept bribes from prisoners while he was warden.

Sartain went through the usual routine required of every prisoner. He was given a bath, shave, photographed and measured for the duck uniform he will wear while an inmate. It has not yet been decided what task Sartain will be given, Warden John Snook said today.

With Sartain entered Lawrence (Heinie) Riehl who was convicted on the same charge. Riehl who also comes from Columbus, Ohio, where both were prominent, will serve one year and a day.

Riehl will be known as convict No. 24208.

FRENCH AGREE TO DEBT PAYMENT PLAN

PARIS, Mar. 1.—The French cabinet today signed a provisional agreement to the United States. The agreement, which has been signed already, reserves all rights of the French parliament regarding ratification of the Mellon-Berenger accord.

The agreement is understood to provide for a payment of $30,000,000 this year.

DAYTON DISTRICT FIRE CHIEF KILLED

DAYTON, O., Mar. 1.—District Fire Chief Edward Madigan, 54, died in a hospital here today from injuries he sustained earlier in the day when struck by a utilities auto truck. Madigan was directing firefighters at an uptown hotel blaze.

Mrs. Madigan was widowed in 1916 when her first husband, motorcycle policeman here, was killed in a collision with a fire truck.

The alienation of affections suit came as a sequel to a divorce count.

PAROLED CONVICT, ARMED WITH GUN, THREATENS HIS ENEMIES

NEW RICHMOND, O., Mar. 1.—Adam Yanger, 51, paroled convict, today was being held under $5,000 bond after terrorizing this village yesterday afternoon.

Armed with a shotgun late Monday he "went out after the men" who he declared "sent him to prison."

After encountering William Conroy, former dry agent, Yanger was said to have threatened to kill him, but Conroy fled.

MILLIONAIRE PUBLISHER HELD FOR ASSAULTING HIS BROTHER

Triangle With Prominent Brothers At Two Corners And Wife Of One At Other Leads To Black Eyes, Police Court

NEW YORK, March 1.—Edward C. Carrington, fifty-five-year-old millionaire publisher of Chicago, was arrested today in the city club and locked up in a police station on a charge of assaulting his brother, Campbell Carrington, 52, a wealthy New York City lawyer, last night.

Campbell Carrington is defendant in a $1,000,000 suit for alleged alienation of affections of Edward Carrington's wife.

Campbell Carrington, his face and head battered, staggered into the Hotel Ansonia last night and said he had been assaulted by a man with a cane. He was sent to Poly-clinic hospital. At the hospital this morning it was said his condition was not serious and that he probably would leave there today.

Detectives were assigned to the case and they arrested Edward Carrington in the city club, where he was in bed. He has lived at the club since he came here from Chicago two months ago.

A charge of felonious assault was lodged against him.

Edward Carrington was accompanied to the police station by a man who said he was a witness but refused to give his name. This man told the authorities that late last night Carrington received a tip that his brother was going out with his, Edward's, wife. They hurried to her home on West 74th St. to investigate, the friend said, and as they approached the house, Campbell Carrington emerged.

Then, according to the friend, the brothers "went to it." Detectives say they were told that Edward had used his walking cane on his brother, and then disappeared.

The alienation of affections suit came as a sequel to a divorce count.

Yanger was later captured in a river shack near here after a short fight with Sheriff Fred Crosswell, of Batavia.

He was charged with attempt to kill; officers said the man had been drinking heavily since Sunday.

Yanger was paroled from the Ohio Penitentiary about a year ago where he was serving a sentence of from one to twenty years on a cutting charge.

CHINESE SOLDIERS DISARMED AND SHIP TAKEN IN CUSTODY

Fire Near Arsenal Alarms Shanghai—Zero Hour Nears

PEKING, March 1.—American bluejackets on the U. S. S. Pigeon today gained a bloodless victory over a band of Chinese soldiers at Hankow, who had seized a Standard oil steamer, the S. S. Meihong. The Chinese were disarmed without a shot being fired.

One hundred Chinese soldiers seized the Standard oil vessel at Shast and brought it to Hankow. On the Meihong's arrival there American bluejackets from the gunboat Pigeon boarded her and piloted her alongside the U. S. S. Sabal, another American river gunboat. Thus caught between the two American gunboats, the Chinese soldiers allowed themselves to be disarmed without a fight.

The refusal of the British shipping companies operating on the Yangtse to meet the labor demands of the Ichang labor unions keeps American interests here involved and is making plenty of work for the American bluejackets on the the upper Yangtse.

SHANGHAI, March 1.—An outbreak of fire near the Lungwa arsenal on the outskirts of Shanghai caused panic conditions in part of the native city today, detracting from the general tension of the military situation.

Fusing of an electric wire is believed to have been responsible for the fire which destroyed ten outbuildings of the arsenal. Fears of explosions, due to the huge stores of munitions in the arsenal, caused a panic among the native residents near the arsenal.

The fire was under control after four hours of arduous labor, firemen being forced to work amidst a rain of exploding bullets.

While the military situation is unchanged the Fengtien troops continue to stream down from the north and Nanking, by way of Changchow, to Sunkiang, apparently planning an attack on the left flank of the Cantonese. There are reports here that the Cantonese are planning a counter-drive in the direction of Nanking thus hoping to split the northern armies, cutting off the southern flank from its base of supplies.

The northern armies now have approximately 40,000 men on the Sunkiang front and with better weather a decisive battle may begin at any moment.

CLOTURE MAY BLOCK BUILDING PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The hopes of hundreds of cities for new federal buildings hung in the balance today.

The situation briefly was: A $19,800,000 appropriation bill carrying funds for 143 construction projects in 1928 passed the house late yesterday. This bill was based upon a $165,000,000 five-year program authorized last year.

Closure was refused by the senate upon the Reed bill increasing this authorization $100,000,000, thus making its passage doubtful. Should this measure pass, however, treasury officials planned to rush to congress another specific appropriation bill for many more buildings to be started in 1928.

REPORT DE PINEDO FORCED TO LAND

RIO JANEIRO, Mar. 1.—Commander Francesco De Pinedo, the Italian aviator who is making a quadri-continental flight, again experienced difficulties in taking the air today, due to the weight of his machine.

Santos advices stated that De Pinedo had made repeated efforts to leave since 7 o'clock this morning, but had been unable to lift his machine into the skies. He was reported discharging weight and hoped to get off for Buenos Aires later in the day.

A later Exchange Telegraph dispatch said that De Pinedo had been forced down at 10:45.

AMERICAN MARINES FIRE ON LIBERALS

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The first shots have been exchanged between American marines, now occupying the principal cities of Nicaragua and manning the trains on the government railroad, and the Nicaraguan liberals forces, according to advices at the navy department today.

Liberal snipers fired on a train between Managua and Corinto, and the marines returned the fire. The train did not stop and no damage was done either side, according to reports.

Franklin, O., Mar. 1.—Cecil Calahan, 9, was shot and killed here today by the accidental discharge of a .22 calibre rifle in the hands of Hugh Hilliard, 17. Hilliard was cleaning his weapon, 100 yards away. The bullet lodged in the boy's brain. The coroner returned a verdict of accidental death.

SNAKES BECOME POPULAR PETS

By P. E. GREGG

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927

The mouse-catching craft is no longer a political plum confined to the feline dynasty. Snakes have come in for their share of the booty, and they mean business. Just as the old one-horse cart has given way to the swift motor car, the cooey job of the wise old domestic cat is threatened at the fire-side. Snakes catch thousands of mice and rats and do the job up well, as laymen have been informed by scientists of note.

Farmers have taken the timely advice and imported a host of the crawling tempters of Eve into the corn crib and even into the family larder to keep the rodent marauders at a respectful distance. And, in a case of emergency, what could make a better pair of suspenders for the Sunday pants than the faithful old family snake? What good housewife wouldn't like to have the reptile perform the duties of an extra length of clothesline or to hold baby away from the stove?

Snake Fear Unfounded. J. L. Cooper, M. S., head of the science department in Central High School here and an authority says that the number of "snake lovers" in the United States has increased astonishingly in the last few years. Farmers have found that one good blacksnake is equal to ten efficient cats.

Possibly the strongest argument in favor of snakes is that they will give chase to the elusive rodent, follow down the hole and extract him from the innermost privacy of his home. It is explained that the unfortunate mouse or rat is seized by the tail and killed before being swallowed whole by his captor. According to the best authorities, the fear of snakes is largely hereditary, and in modern times has little foundation in fact. There are only about four species of poisonous snakes in the United States, and their tribes number among the few. The great mass of non-poisonous reptiles that are a boon to mankind are made to suffer for the transgressions of their cousins.

Proof that modern youth is breaking away from the faulty characteristics handed down to them by a neurotic great-grandmother is brought out by the fact that pupils of the biology department in the Central High School, recently staged a thorough scour-

LICKING THE PANS
The twins inherit their distressing taste. It was a passion with their Uncle Jim To let no drop of frosting go to waste, And when they lick the pans, they act like him!

Their Grand-dad always said that cooky-dough Was sweetest on the edges of the bowl. He missed his brother's wedding, long ago, Scraping a cake-pan clean, upon my soul!

Working like mad, spoons flying, cocked of head, They scour the pans I made the taffy in. "Please leave a few small spoonfuls in," they said. In spots they've scraped my candy-kettle thin.

There's not one sugary crumb they ever miss, No drop is slighted from molasses cans. Yes, they inherit their sad taste for this—The unseemly mania for licking pans!

OHIO LEGISLATORS
PROPOSE TO CHANGE
U. S. CONSTITUTION

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 1.—Ohio legislators led by State Representative R. R. Cross, Dayton, are gunning for "political lame ducks," and with this in mind have initiated a national movement to change the constitution of the United States.

A resolution now awaiting action in the Ohio assembly would revoke provisions of Article V of the constitution and pave the way for a convention to be called by congress for the submission of amendments.

The ultimate aim of Representative Cross and his associates is to provide for a constitutional amendment which would eliminate the long period between the election of congressman and the time they actually begin work—thirteen months—and suspend the session of "lame ducks" held shortly after the election.

The Cross resolution declares that "the enactment of popular will into law is delayed, hampered and prevented by reason of the hiatus between the expression of WASHINGTON, March 1.—Miss Phoebe B. Fairgrave Omie of Memphis is the first woman to apply for a federal airplane pilot's license.

In her application submitted today to the commerce department, she said she had more than 200 hours in the air. The license would permit her to fly any make of airplane and engage in interstate commerce aviation.

Her brother, Vernon C. Omie, also applied for a license.

QUIZ YOUTH WHEN BRIDE FOUND DEAD

CHICAGO, Mar. 1.—Carl Wood, hotel employe was being held today pending the inquest into the death of Mrs. Mabel Wood, his 18-year-old bride.

Mrs. Wood's nude body was found in a hotel bath room at the end of a hall, thirty feet from her own apartment. Several marks on the body indicated violence.

DON'T STARVE TO END FAT

There is an easier way, used for 19 years. Millions of people know it. The results are seen in every circle. Excess fat is not nearly so common as it was. That way is Marmola Prescription Tablets, made to combat the cause of fat by correcting a gland weakness. The effects will surprise and delight you, and a booklet in each box tells you why they come.

All drugists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Go try it now. Join those slender friends of yours who are glad they learned about it.

foul play is the fact that nothing, not even a bath robe, was found in the bathroom.

Police, summoned by the young husband who found the body, believed the woman had fainted.

Her heart was still beating when they arrived, the officers said. A pulmotor was applied but effort to revive her failed. Wood maintained he knew nothing of the circumstances surrounding her death.

MORITZ-CARLOS MARRIAGE TUESDAY.

Miss Marie Moritz chose a frock of black and tan, embroidered in a myriad of pastel shades, for her marriage to Mr. James Carlos at St. Bridget's Catholic Church, Tuesday morning at 6:45 o'clock.

Her maid, Miss Marie Fisher, wore a gown of black, appliqued in various colors. Both wore black hats with footwear to harmonize. The best man was Mr. Thomas Gilroy.

The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father David Powers, pastor, who officiated at the nuptial mass. After the quiet ceremony, the wedding party was served breakfast at the Frances Inn and Mr. and Mrs. Carlos left Tuesday morning for New York.

After spending a week or ten days visiting points of interest in the East, they will return to reside on W. Second St., in the apartment at the home of Mr. Fleming Watt. Mrs. Carlos will continue her beauty shop in her new location. She was formerly in the Wilson Building. Mr. Carlos is engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

WHAT to WEAR and How to WEAR IT

By LUCY CLAIRE

Favorite Fashion Adviser of the Smart Set.

As far as clothes go, winter is at an end and although we may still cling to the warm topcoat, our thoughts are constantly on spring dresses and we have actually discarded winter frocks in favor of the lighter, more spirited patterns of springtime those early twinges of spring fever.

I do not tell you that these frocks indicate permanent spring trends, rather, they are a forerunner of the season and comprise a group which I call "in-between-time" clothes. But you will remember that in my regular spring forecast I told you of the pronounced influence of the jacket mode. In these frocks you will see the bloused tendencies illustrated which will develop into the actual jacket patterns in a few weeks' time.

I want you to observe first, the center frock, of black crepe de chine, combined with a simple scalloped arrangement of white in collar, cuffs, kerchief and tie. Notice the straight up and down effect of the silhouette. You will see that the bloused draps have been placed low about the hips, for we still choose to ignore the natural waistline.

For the very tall, slender woman, this arrangement I have just spoken of would not be becoming. I recommend for her type of stature the model shown at the extreme left because of the close-fitting girdle-like band about her hips tends to lengthen her waistline and thereby divides her height in more pleasing proportions.

The little dress at the right is a great favorite of mine and its line and cut is so well executed that I do not hesitate to recommend its inclusion in your wardrobe. Color is such a positive influence that I found this light, creamy beige silk particularly appealing and so effectively combined with the under-house of floral patterned crepe in shades of blue and dull gold. The overblouse, which is opened down the center front shows a vestee effect of the printed material—an excellent means of unifying and drawing together these two fabrics of contrasting character. In selecting figured material as a trimming, I want you to always study its related effect to the whole and if it gives the appearance of something that has just been tacked on as an afterthought, then you can be sure it will have a most disfiguring effect when worn.

The two designs shown below, although effected in different materials, might well be cut from the same pattern, for they show the bolero idea—more highly developed than a blouse, and yet not quite a jacket. To be really smart—and I have seen them look so chic on some women—the waistline must not be too long, yet without impairing the general effect in any way, a wide wrap-around girdle may be twisted about the hips. You can see here, its adaptability to this mode.

In my next article I am going to continue with a few more suggestions on in-between-time clothes.

WOMEN SEE EXHIBIT OF HAIR DRESSING

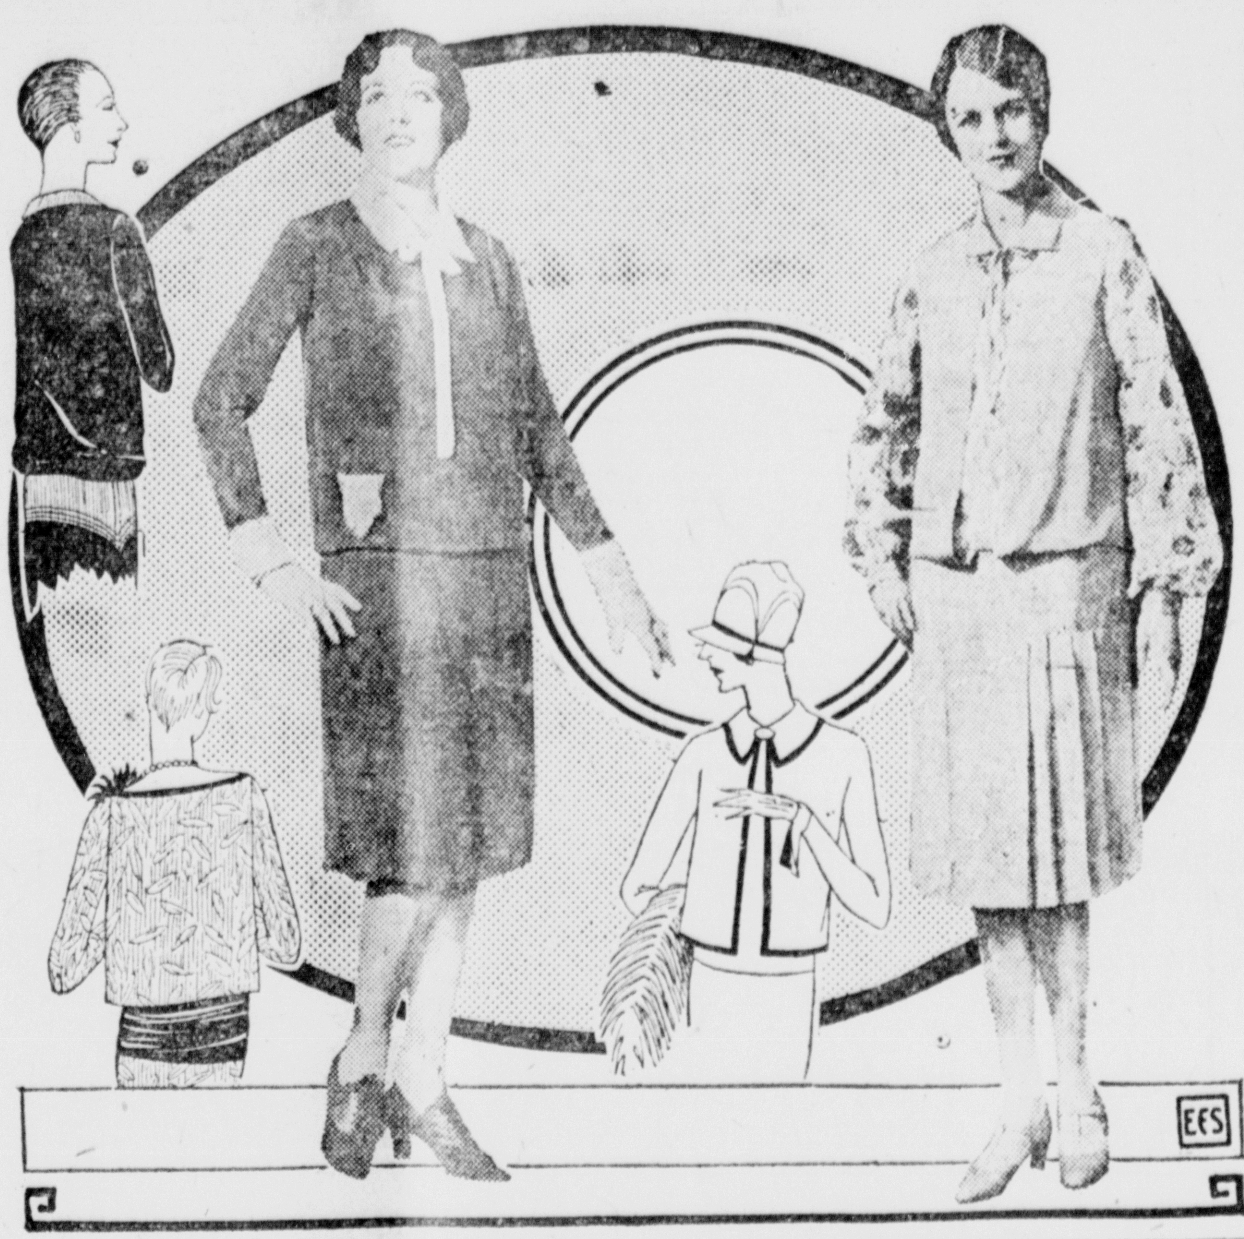

A large audience of women watched with much interest the process of putting in a permanent wave as demonstrated by Mr. Gabriel of New York City, an expert in permanent waving, at the Opera House Monday evening under auspices of the Court House Beauty Parlor.

Miss Mary Mangan of the Court House Beauty Parlor was given a permanent wave and after the process was completed the audience was invited to the stage to inspect the results. The demonstration, which was free to the public, was put on by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Ferris, proprietors of the Court House Beauty Parlor.

MARRIED FILM MEN KISS COWARDS, SHE SAYS

JOAN CRAWFORD AND DOUGLAS GILMORE IN THE MIDST OF A KISS WHICH THE HOLLYWOOD EXPERTS SAY LACKS NOTHING IN SINCERITY.

By JAMES MANSTER

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927 HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 1.—Married men are cowardly kissers in the movies. So declares Pauline Starke, film star.

"It is their sub-conscious fear of the jealousy of their wives. They don't put any spirit into it," she explains.

All men, avers the seductive Carmel Myers, also a film star, kiss brunettes more ardently than they do blondes. There's something about light hair that seems to appeal to even a film star's protective instinct.

No man, avows Miss Greta Garbo, who skyrocketed to fame recently, can kiss convincingly in the films unless he puts heart and soul into it and feels that particular kiss is the most important thing in the world just then.

The conclusions above noted are only a few of those reached by movie actors and actresses lately, after an intensive study of the kiss, its uses and abuses, as it affects the artist and the box-office.

Not all the denizens of Hollywood agree with all the findings, particularly with those of Miss Garbo, who confesses she kisses as if she meant it and wants to be kissed the same way.

Claire Windsor, for instance, says there's nothing at all per se in a screen kiss, and an actress can be as matter of fact and deliberate about one as she can about ordering up the Rolls Royce or ringing for her maid. She says her husband, the popular Bert Lytell, has seen all her pictures having kissing sequences and never would think of getting jealous any more than she would be jealous of him.

"Why, I really think I could put seeming fervor into a kiss given my worst enemy for the sake of my art," she says.

"Screen kisses mean nothing. If Tony Moreno seems to linger over the lips of his heroine like a stenographer over a chocolate sundae, it merely means that he is a bear for realism. If Dick Barthelmess seems to have his soul on his lips in the yearning kiss he gives the poor but honest mountain girl, it signifies nothing save that Mr. Barthelmess is a good actor. He and that particular leading lady may get along like a couple of strange chow dogs off the lot."

Mrs. Windsor avers that she can be as demure while languishing in the arms of a cave-man of the

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Mothers, Do This—

When the children cough, rub Musterole on their throats and chests. No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then's when you're glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt relief.

As first aid, Musterole is excellent. Keep a jar ready for instant use.

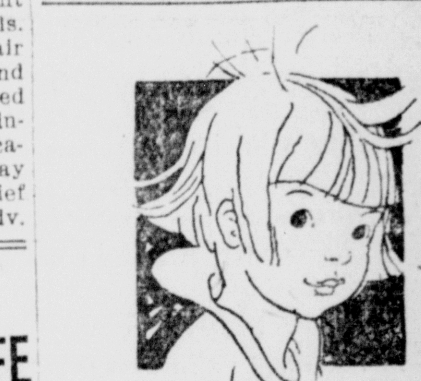

It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frosted feet and colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in a milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Oatmeal

the rich source of so much children need

A bowl of Mother's Oats with milk makes a rich contribution to children's development. Not just energy—not just the muscle-and-tissue building element called protein.

But minerals, too. And vitamins. And the tender oat-bran.

These too-often-neglected factors are highly important, according to modern discoveries in nutrition. They are necessary for normal growth in children—which usually means normal sleep, normal play, and normal progress at school.

And for real health in grown-ups.

Mother's Oats is a natural whole-grain food; finely and evenly milled by careful millers. You can count on it always to cook up smooth and even, and you will love its rich flavor. Two kinds, Quick (cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes) and the kind you have always known. Both with coupons interchangeable with Aunt Jemima coupons, redeemable for premiums, silverware, toys, etc.

KNOWLEDGE IS RICHES

What good is a book that is never opened? In American public libraries there are upwards of 75,000,000 volumes and the problem of librarians is to get useful and instructive book off the shelves out among the people.

To read even a few of these would show us how to live more wisely, how to avoid old mistakes that for centuries have kept the race back. Millions and tens of millions of dollars could be saved each year. We would have better sanitation in our homes and in our cities, abler business methods, if we read more of these valuable books in our public libraries for which our cities tax themselves heavily.

Why not take advantage of this opportunity? It promises untold reward and has been overlooked by you perhaps. It's yours for the asking.

Aside from the old writers, a modern generation of practical thinkers and scientists has added immense stores of knowledge to the important subject of right living; interpreting the nation's business, health and happiness for your especial benefit, if you will but call at your library.

Perhaps you or thinking of an old-fashioned library, shelves of writings in Greek or Latin, a few dull encyclopedias, thousands of silly love stories, poets that tear passion to tatters?

Modern leaders of thought are along another order, entirely. They show us in plain common sense style the complexity of forces that make or mar life, how to an ever larger extent those forces may be grasped, or if not actually controlled, at least helpfully directed.

Get acquainted with your librarian. Explain your problems, let him or her select for you a few useful books. And that is what we all need. Printer's ink is the universal medicine for all ills. "Knowledge of itself is riches."

JUDGE LINDSEY'S PLAN DENOUNCED

In a letter to a Chicago publication a writer wants to know if trial marriages should be established for the benefit of mentally defective people. He writes:

"Shall morons determine the meaning of marriage? According to Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver they shall. The large number of youths that come to his court and to his counsel chamber are of the moronic type—children in mind whether or not they have arrived at physical adulthood. And, what is a more serious matter, many of them are of a type that is pathological, who under examination would show strikingly abnormal tendencies.

"Evidently the reaction which this Denver judge has developed from this contact with many morons of that western city amounts to an obsession—that they are right and society with its sane and wholesome standards and meaning for marriage is wrong. Such deduction would seem to appear from recent magazine articles from his pen, particularly from the article in which he pleads for an out-and-out trial marriage system.

"Now to say that morons shall have determining voice in marriage or in any other vast human question, would be as foolish as to say that any such determinations should emanate from the Psychopathic ward of a hospital. It would be the same as putting society under the rule of mental defectives. The pathetic and tragic spectacle presented in the case of Judge Lindsey is that a man whose contact with morons both of the moral and mental type has sheered him into the complex of taking their abnormal viewpoint as valid for the world at large. For the social welfare outcome of his experience it had been better if his jurisdiction had been alternated through the years to bring counter-balancing viewpoints.

"Today as always the demand abides that moral standards shall not be fixed by defectives and by children, and that if changes come in marriage laws they shall come from wisdom drawn from old and counsel sane and not from the juvenile defectives of the Denver courts."

THE CAUSE OF LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA

What causes locomotor ataxia? What are its symptoms and is there any cure? These are questions frequently asked by correspondents.

Motion and locomotion, or walking, are produced by the contractions of the muscles of the body. These muscles are actuated by the stimulation of the nerves which sprout, as it were, in pairs on either side of the spinal cord. From their roots or origins they spread out and are distributed to every portion of the body.

Each spinal nerve has two roots an anterior which sends its branches and twigs mainly to the skin, causing sensation or feeling and a posterior which sends them mainly to the muscles. When an impulse comes down to these nerves from the brain it is transmitted along the proper nerves, like the current on a copper wire, and when it reaches the proper muscle it stimulates it and makes it contract, thus producing motion. In locomotor ataxia there is a hardening process in the fibers of the posterior roots of certain spinal nerves, in the posterior strands of nerve fibers in the spinal cord, and in the ends of certain of the spinal nerves that go to the skin and the muscles. This is no longer good conductors of impressions. The result of this is called ataxia, which means want of harmony between the intention to make certain motions and the way they are actually made.

You intend to walk in a certain way, but your disease will not let you and that is locomotor ataxia. There is also in this disease an absence of feeling in some parts of the skin and terrible pain in other parts. There is also pain in the stomach and wasting of muscles and nerves.

This disease begins unexpectedly and progresses very slowly. It may be twenty or thirty years before it is finally fatal. At first there may be numbness or tingling in the feet, then pains in the legs with fatigue from slight exertion. There are double vision, squinting, contracted pupils and perhaps blindness. There may be no control over the bladder and rectum and great pain in the bowel. There is impairment of the sense of heat and cold, of touch and of the weight of objects. There is often vomiting, palpitation, difficulty in breathing and degenerative changes in the skin, hair, teeth and nails. Frequently the joints enlarge, the bones break easily and there is a feeling of numbness or constriction in the waist, chest and throat.

Walking is peculiar, the legs being widely separated and held up with each step. Another peculiarity is that if one is asked to stand and put his two forefingers on his nose, he would sway from side to side, perhaps fall and be unable to reach his nose with the two fingers at the same time. A marked feature of the disease is the absence of response in the tendon of the knee; if you tap it the leg will remain still instead of jerking upward as it normally does. This disease is said by many writers to be entirely the result of syphilis. Whether this is true in all cases I cannot say, but you usually see it in those who have led vicious lives or have been much exposed to cold, wet and fatigue. It is usually present between the ages of twenty-five and forty-five, more often in men than in women. Medicines are of little use except as they are required to relieve pain; they will not arrest the disease. Useful measures are rest in bed, freedom from worry if possible, warm baths, simple diet, mas-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. G. E.: 1—Is it injurious to drink cold bitter tea left in the teapot, twice a day after meals, tea with the tea leaves in it? 2—Is it injurious to let cold tea stand in an aluminum or tin cup? A.—1—Yes, because you have a very strong infusion of tea which is astringent, constipating and irritating to the nerves. 2—I do not think it is.

How to Achieve Beauty

BUDGETING YOUR ATTENTION TO BEAUTY
Devote One Day's Beauty Efforts to Your Eyes.

If you devote Monday's beauty efforts to the care of your hair, I think it is a good idea to care for the eyes on Tuesday. It is not, however, necessary to follow the exact routine I have suggested, and if you prefer to especially care for your eyes some other day during the week, it is all very well to do so. I am simply writing about the eyes today, as I am following their natural sequence.

The eye cup should be part of every woman's beauty kit, and I should like to see it used every day, but for you busy women who must budget your beauty time, I must suggest that you use it the first thing in the morning on "eye day," and if you are home at luncheon time, use it again.

If some of my readers are young ladies in offices I think it would be a good idea if you would keep an eye cup in the office and a small bottle of boracic acid solution, which you could use occasionally through the day. And you need feel no qualms about taking a few minutes from your duties to care for your eyes, especially on the morning of "eye day," as you will probably not take one-fourth as much time to do this as the men in your office take to go out to smoke a cigar or cigarette and you will not be imposing to any great extent upon your employer's time by taking a few minutes for this very necessary duty. Or if you do not care to take any time during business hours, you can come back from your luncheon five or ten minutes sooner on Tuesday, or whatever day you decide to give your eyes special attention, and carry out a little of this treatment work.

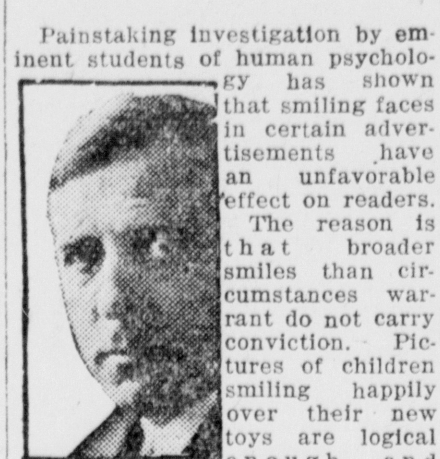

Also remember that it is important for the beauty and well-being of your eyes to change your focus often; do not stare. To stare is to strain, and if you shift your gaze often you will be giving your eyes really helpful exercise. When riding in the street car or subway close your eyes, as this will rest them. Also when riding to and from business you can do little eye exercises that are very beneficial. Look at the ceiling a second, then at the window, then at the floor; the more you change your focus the better.

If you are out at business all day, be sure on "eye day" that you make little pads of cotton and dip them in a mild boracic acid solution, lying for ten or fifteen minutes before you go to bed, with these pads over your eyes.

It is also very soothing to the eyes to bind them up in a black silk stocking, or to tie a piece of black silk ribbon around them and leave it on over night, at least once a week. This will keep out every vestige of early morning light and insure sounder sleep. The woman who is at home should throw herself down on a couch or the bed two or three times during the day, applying over her eyes little pads of cotton

KELLYGRAMS by FRED C. KELLY

EVEN SMILES CAN BE OVERDONE

Painstaking investigation by eminent students of human psychology has shown that smiling faces in certain advertisements have an unfavorable effect on readers. The reason is that broader smiles than circumstances warrant do not carry conviction. Pictures of children smiling happily over their new toys are logical enough, and Fred Kelly (therefore honest. But why should a man and his wife be wreathed in grins in an advertisement for clothing or furniture? When you buy a new overcoat, or a new chair for the sitting room, you may be glad you have it, but, inasmuch as you had other uses for your money you are perhaps also sorry that the old one didn't last a little longer. You don't giggle or laugh over such purchases in real life and if you do so in a picture, the thing looks fake. Faces showing only moderate degrees of pleasure in an advertising picture have proved to be more effective because more truthful.

For years I have adopted a certain brand of underwear, solely because I got tired of seeing magazine pictures of a man inserting himself into a new union suit while smiling in a silly fashion. I should be the last person to deny a man the simple pleasure of having suitable underwear but why should he smirk and giggle about it?

MAKING MODERN MENUS

A fish loaf is a good substitute for meat and the one given below varies from the usual recipe. This may always be served cold with mayonnaise as a luncheon dish, and often it is used for dinner for a small family.

FISH LOAF

Flake one can of tuna with a fork. Chop six oysters, one-half of a green pepper and one small onion into bits and add to the fish with a slightly beaten egg, one-half a teaspoon of salt and a cupful of soft bread crumbs. Add the oil from the fish can. Mix well, put into a buttered baking dish and sprinkle with fine buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until browned, which is about twenty minutes and serve with tomato sauce.

RICE WITH SAUSAGE

Chop finely one small onion and one sweet green pepper from which the seeds have been removed. Mix thoroughly with three cups of boiled rice and spread the mixture one inch thick in a baking dish. Cover with a pound of thin sausages, which have been slightly browned in a frying pan and then with the remaining rice. Pour over one cup of milk and dot with two tablespoons of butter. Bake covered for half an hour in a moderate oven, then uncover and bake half an hour longer.

Even when you meet a man face to face, his smile to be effective should be only as elaborate a smile as the situation calls for. Otherwise, you question his sincerity. A certain man I know has made a small fortune by going about the country delivering Polyanna talks to clubs, urging everybody to be happy. Theoretically this fellow should be a good influence in any neighborhood and popular.

Yet when I visited his home town not long ago, I learned that this man's neighbors are inclined to avoid him. They are beginning to think that his smile is merely a trade mark, often out of place and irritating.

A smile should be used only when justified.

You wouldn't want your friends to come smiling to your father's funeral would you?

The Theatre

"Why Beauty Winners Fail in the Movies" is the topic discussed in the current issue of "Motion Picture" magazine. It recites the cases where beauties either took advantage of their movie chances after winning beauty contests by hard work or were lost in the shuffle and dismissed by Fame.

"There is many a waitress in Los Angeles today who was a beauty contest winner in her home town," says the article. "Many a girl who journeyed to the movie city of her dreams with heart aflutter and hopes running high has borrowed sufficient money to pay her train fare back home where, if she is wise, she forgets it and if not, lived with a heart filled with disillusion. Of the hundreds of beauty contest winners or near winners there are only a few that can be named who have made their mark in motion pictures. Two of these were not first-prize winners in their contest."

Lois Wilson, former school teacher, one of the few beauty winners who have made good, thinks most of the girls fail because they think beauty is all that is needed. She says there is "no beauty path" to screen glory. Norma Talmadge brought Margaret Leahy to America after she won a beauty contest which Norma sponsored in a British newspaper. Miss Leahy played in a picture with Buster Keaton, but has never been heard of since. Winning a beauty contest only gave Gertrude Olmstead a chance to work hard, she says. Together with winning a contest, Mary Philbin had a gift for acting, which put her "over." Mary Beregi.

Just as "Hamlet" was presented in modern clothes on Broadway last season, Norma Talmadge has revived "Camille" aka 1927 for an early presentation. She will take the part of the famous vamp in modern clothes with up-to-the-minute settings. Her leading man will be Gilbert Roland, young Spanish actor who is being introduced to the American public in this picture. Others in the cast include Lilyan Tashman, Rose Dione, Harvey Clark and Oscar Beregi.

Guardian of the Family

"MY father, who is past 75, shares our bottle of Syrup Pepsin with his little great-granddaughter aged three. And when I feel constipated, with headache and biliousness, I also get my share of Syrup Pepsin. We would as soon think of being without salt and sugar as not to have a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the house." (Name and address will be furnished upon request.)

Constipation Always a Danger

"Always something," says mother. "Biliousness, sour stomach, headache, colds, fevers—you never know when or what." Syrup Pepsin is mother's safeguard. Sweetens stomach, moves bowels; children recover like magic. No wonder mothers everywhere know and trust Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is the guardian of the family's health. Sweet, sirupy—children and old people love it. Mild, yet thorough in action. Sudden colds, fevers, headache—conditions responsible for nearly all disease—a dose of Syrup Pepsin and all fear is gone. Once in the home every mother says—"I keep it always on hand." Every druggist sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Central High Ends Successful Court Campaign

Central High School's basketball team has brought to a triumphant close one of the most successful court seasons in years, finishing its regular playing schedule with only three defeats in fourteen starts.

The Blue and White had its ups and downs particularly in the closing half of the season but the "ups" were easily in the majority.

The most notable fact is that Coach Kolb's boys won their first eight games before bowing to the Eaton eagles in mid-season.

It was Kolb's second year at Central. He developed a team with a slashing offense based on the Wesleyan University style of game. Led by Captain Fred Smith, the team came through a big majority of its games with flying colors, although small margin victories were quite common, including two overtime wins.

Kolb brought into action probably one of the greatest teams Xenia has had. Through careful manipulation and adjustment of seven men, pulling and inserting according to the game's needs, he was able to take his team through safely in a great percentage of games. Vic Kolb is a coach of power and personality and got out of the squad all that there was in it, including a fighting heart.

Near the end of the season the squad went stale, overcome by a natural court weariness that be-sets the best of teams. Kolb is going to give the squad a good long rest during the next two weeks to overcome "that tired feeling," and a break in the monotony of court drills should have the effect of a tonic on Xenia's showing in the district tournament at Dayton.

Coach Kolb is convinced that if the Blue and White can recover in a measure the early season form that carried it to eight straight victories, the team will be heard from in the sectional tourney.

In fourteen games this year Xenia made a total of 396 points, an average of twenty-eight markers per game. Opponents scored 302 points, an average of twenty-one per game. Season's record follows:

Xenia 20, Wilmington 19.
Xenia 26, Chillicothe 14.
Xenia 26, Springfield 24. (overtime).
Xenia 32, Greenville 7.
Xenia 21, Zanesville 16.

Central Draws Middletown For First Tourney Tilt

STRONG TEAM FACES LOCALS IN OPENING ROUND ON SATURDAY

Cedarville To Meet West Mansfield In B Division

Central High School dribblers face the difficult assignment of playing Middletown High School, a team that defeated the Blue and White 41 to 17, earlier in the season, in the first round of the divisional Class A tournament at Dayton Saturday, March 5 as a result of the drawings held in Dayton Monday night.

The Xenia-Middletown game is carded for 3:10 o'clock, the third game of the afternoon.

The victor in the Xenia-Middle contest meets the winner of the Urbana-Sidney fray at 3 p. m. March 11. Middletown has not defeated this season and Coach Lingrel's team will be a favorite to win the Class A division of the regional tourney.

In the Class B drawings held at the same time, Bath Twp. High, runnersup in the recent county game tourney, and Xenia East High School were among the five lucky teams of twenty-seven entered, to draw byes the first round.

Cedarville High, Greene Co. Class B, champions, drew the West Mansfield dribblers as their first round opponents. The game is set for 8:30 a. m. Friday, March 4, as the opening game of the tournament.

Bath Twp. will play its first tournament game Friday evening, meeting the strong Eaton High quintet, which also drew a bye, at 7 o'clock. Xenia East will be required to play the winner of the Mansfield-Cedarville contest at 8:40 p. m. Friday.

Class A schedule for March 5 follows:
Hamilton vs. Cincinnati Elder at 1:30 p. m.
U. of D. Preps vs. Norwood at 2:20 p. m.
Xenia Central vs. Middletown at 3:10 p. m.

Urbana vs. Sidney at 4:00 p. m.
Piqua vs. Troy at 6:30 p. m.
Stivers vs. Roosevelt at 7:20 p. m.
Springfield vs. Greenfield at 8:10 p. m.

Bellefontaine vs. Steele at 9:00 p. m.
Friday's games in the Class B division follow:
West Mansfield vs. Cedarville at 8:20 a. m.
Rushsylvania vs. Oakwood at 9:20 a. m.

Plattsburg vs. Fairview at 10:10 a. m.
Anna vs. Tipp City at 11:00 a. m.
Verona vs. West Carrollton at 12:30 p. m.

Fairmont vs. Lanier at 1:20 p. m.
M. L. I. vs. Salem at 2:10 p. m.
Miamisburg vs. North Hampton at 3 p. m.

Stanton vs. St. Paris at 3:50 p. m.
Adams vs. Monroe (Preble) at 4:40 p. m.
Monroe (Darke) vs. Gettysburg at 5:30 p. m.

Teams that drew byes and will play Friday night are:
Eaton vs. Bath Twp. at 7 p. m.
New Carlisle vs. East Liberty at 7:50 p. m.
Xenia East vs. Mansfield-Cedarville at 8:40 p. m.

TREASURER REPORTS $600,000 RECEIVED

Approximately $600,000 represented the sum of the hands of County Treasurer Frank A. Jackson when the books were closed March 1 at the expiration of the time for payment of the first half of 1926 taxes, without delinquency.

This is an average collection for this period, Treasurer Jackson announced.

Tax payments are still being received through the mails and will be honored providing they were posted prior to midnight of February 28, the time limit. The treasurer's office is being deluged with letters and no accurate figures on the total tax collection can be arrived at, until the large volume of mail is sorted out.

XENIA BOWLER MISSES PERFECT SCORE; MAKES ELEVEN STRIKES

Failure of the number ten pin to fall on a "Brooklyn" hit in the seventh frame of the third game, deprived Lee Regan, son of Al Regan, proprietor of the Arcade alleys, of a perfect score of 300 in a doubles match Monday night.

Regan laid in six straight strikes but in the next frame the ten pin refused to topple on a fair hit. Lee picked up the spare and then proceeded to make five more consecutive strikes finishing with a 279 count, the second highest single game to be rolled by a local man in the past three years.

This unusual performance occurred in the third game of a doubles match between Regan and Jordan and the Bice-Al Regan team at the resumption of the city two-man tournament. Regan and Jordan won two games after losing two out of three to Brickel and Dice in a previous match.

Moorehead and Frame won two out of three in a third match of the evening. Results:

Easy to Keep the System Sweet at Any Age

Many people who never have to take a laxative eat a candy cascarat now and then. Do you know why?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cauterize the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July. Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascarat only once a week is all the tonic they needed.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every drug-store has for 10c and 25c.—Adve.

FROM UNDERTAKER

EXPLAINED IN TALK

The high type of service the public demands from the funeral director, was emphasized by Charles M. Anderson, general sales manager of the Champion Chemical Co., Springfield, O., who gave the main address at the meeting of the Funeral Directors' Association, held at the Parish House, this city, Monday night.

About fifty people, including funeral directors and their wives attended the banquet and meeting.

Edward Hoynes, president of District Four was present and represented the District Ten from Greene, Warren, Fayette, Highland and Clinton Counties were there. Edward Snider, Cincinnati, first vice president of the National Funeral Directors' Association, gave a report of the national

"SPRING SEEMS TO HAVE COME"

When spring is in the air, so is everything else. March may come in like a lion, but that's the way father comes in the first of every month!

This is the time of year when you are all set for summer and then find you still have to stand up to winter.

Father doesn't know whether to seed the lawn or just feed the chickens in the usual way!

Everyone wants to know "When is Easter?" and the guess is just about three hats away.

The first spring-like day makes you feel like tripping the light fantastic and you certainly would trip it—in galoshes!

There is no longer any long un-south are getting ready to fly north and that's the way they'll have to do it, if they get back at all!

In the spring a young man's fancy turns, in fact, if he isn't very careful it does a somersault!

Spring used to be the time for love-making, but now that it is going strong all seasons of the year the only thing left to do is speed it up. Which is easier to do, now that the motors don't freeze up!

By this time everyone's winter clothes are ready to be shed, in fact the fur coats have been doing it for some time.

All those who are away at school are marking days off the calendar until the spring vacation, which derwear to be left off at the first signs of thaw. There's nothing which we could leave off nowadays, unless it's smoking!

Spring fever depends largely on temperature. Some people have it all the year around, but they overdo it when it's in season.

This is the time for day-dreaming, particularly when you've been up late the night before.

A woman's idea of being in style is to be able to answer "Spring has come" with "I got there first!"

Those who have been in the lets them out—but not for good! Housecleaning time is not far off, but when it comes father will be!

A lot of people are getting their cars painted, which is why there is so much hiving done in the spring. It makes the old-fashioned girl with knickers think of going out in the woods to pick flowers. The man who goes with her may be a good picker too!

Well, now that spring has come, it looks as though we should let everything else go!

SKIPPY

CAESAR BONAPARTE SMYTHE

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—New York is the home of the Lucy Stone League—an organization of capable women some of whom could swap chins with their husbands and still be boss of the roost.

The Lucy Stoners refuse to use their husbands' names. They hold that the custom whereby a woman forfeits her maiden name at marriage is a hold-over from the days when woman was a glorified vassal. They regard the custom as an impediment—doubtless small, but an impediment, nevertheless to the full realization of female emancipation.

Most of the members of Lucy's League are embled to get about as they do for the sole reason that their husbands amount to something. And their refusal to wear these men's names is merely an adroit manner of capitalizing what they affect to disregard.

All of them thrive on what Bill calls "the aims basket of words." A certain member of the League came up for discussion the other evening at a "mistake" time. In the middle of the knock-tell the duchess piped up with the query: "Whose wife is she?"

Peremptorily she was informed that such a question was absolutely out of order, not according to Hoyle, and utterly "less majestic" as they say over on Eighth avenue. "That may all be," replied the duchess airily, "but it's the only way I can ever identify any one of those confounded women!"

If the duchess had been born a man she would have been what the accident insurance people call a "bad risk." Two stocking manufacturers in New York have been battling each other for some time. One of them trusted to the quality and price of his output, the other took a large safety pin and fastened his faith to the ultimate success of widespread and persistent advertising.

The other day Advertising Ike gave Meritorious Moe five million dollars and now Advertising Ike has a clear field.

The question before the house is: Who's going to repay Advertising Ike the five million he slipped to Meritorious Moe? Isn't life wonderful?

A Fifth Avenue stocking merchant advertises "Three stockings to the pair. They cost less than two pairs and last longer than one." Some day some genius is going to get out a book containing the life history, the photograph and the business methods of each of the eager-eyed lads who whip the women of this country into the Fashion Lines.

If mother and the Girls ever wake up—glory be!

A New York men embarked on a reading jag. He read constantly for twenty-one days, refusing to seek the ostermooer or tie on the nose bag. At the end of that time he arose hastily from his wicker chair, rushed into the kitchen, grabbed up a large carving knife and attempted suicide.

The news story, unfortunately, refrains from mentioning what books held the victim enthralled for three weeks, and which one finally prompted him to take his life.

The Authors' League should investigate the story at once and relieve at least a dozen prominent authors from suspicion.

An ample woman with two chins, a fur coat and baby in her arms steppon on a five-and-ten-cent store on Third Avenue the other day, deposited her penny, stared until she had committed to memory the number on the dial to which the arrow pointed, then stepped to the pavement again and resumed her journey.

She didn't look like a woman who had ever flirted with square root, cube root, geometry, trigonometry, logarithm, differential calculus, fractions or even the the lowest common denominator.

She went on her way leaving a Gentleman of the Old School to marvel at her manner of arriving at her true weight.

It may be she feared the worst and was looking around for an excuse. In her final rough-and-ready calculation, to eliminate twenty pounds or so, more that she was entitled to.

A woman has dropped pretty low when she'll drag in a poor, innocent little baby to help cheat herself on a penny weighing machine.

Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at Central High School. This troop now boasts thirty members, so only two more applications for membership can be honored, as the limit is thirty-two.

Merit badge work is coming along nicely in both troops, Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury says. Following Scouts have passed merit badge tests since January 1:

Robert Crawford, of Troop 1, personal health, on January 25; Lawrence Eyer, of Troop 1, personal health, February 13, path finding, February 13 and safety first, February 26; Willis McDorman, Troop 2, firemanship, February 14; Robert Crawford, Troop 1, scholarship, February 25; Willis McDorman, personal health, February 28.

Total of seventy-six merit badges have been passed by members of both troops since May 1, 1925. Twenty-one merit badges make Scouts eligible for the Eagle badge, the ambition of every Scout.

"Merit badge work is full of interest to the boys," Scoutmaster Kingsbury declares, "and leads them into study of their choice of sixty-five subjects, some requiring but a few evenings study, others taking as long as six months time and study to complete."

Thousands Have Hepatic Torpidity And Don't Know It

If You Fear An Operation Because of Gall Bladder Trouble or Gall Stones, Watch These Signs.

Perhaps you don't know whether you have this trouble or not, but if you are bothered with dizzy spells, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness and nights of restless misery—you probably are a victim of this health destroying menace that fills your system with poison and may mean a dangerous surgical operation unless checked at once!

Folks near or past middle life are especially liable to hepatic torpidity, gall bladder trouble or gall stones—and in the opinion of the writer one of the best things in the world for conditions of this kind is the regular home use of "Klax-Ko" tablets which Sayre's Drug Store and other good druggists supply on a binding guarantee to refund their small cost if genuine beneficial results are not obtained inside of a week. Klax-Ko tablets have brought new life and health to hundreds, and they must positively do the same for you or their use will not cost you a penny. Try them today.

"She looks just like a photograph of 'What the Well-Dressed Woman Will Not Wear in 1927,'" thought Bobbie, fazing at from the rear as she followed her out into the sitting room. Evidently Roy Schultz thought something like that, too. For he said quietly:

"Do you think you need all those beads and bracelets, Monica? Won't they make you nervous?"

Monica's eyes were like blue flames. "No, they won't," she said boldly. "And let me tell you something, Roy Schultz, I may not have any money or any education, but there's one thing I certainly do have—and that's style! So don't try to tell me how to dress! And she sailed grandly out of the door ahead of him, and teetered down the stairs on her high-spiked heels.

"Roy's begun to see his lady love as others see her," Gus remarked as he and Bobbie got into his dark-green car. "Did you ever notice that about people? They never begin to see each other's faults until they begin to fall out of love with each other."

Why did she notice all these little faults that really shouldn't matter to her? Could it be that she was falling out of love with him, now that she finally had got herself engaged to him?

"Oh no!" she told herself firmly, as they drove up before the restaurant where so many famous people have entered and eaten and gone away, "I'm just getting to know Gus. That's all—I care for him just as much as ever I did."

It was true that she no longer lay awake nights, wondering where he was and worrying about him. But that didn't mean anything. She had to get the proper amount of sleep, now that she was actually playing in pictures. Nothing made a girl look odd and puffy around the eyes like losing her sleep!

She clung close to him, as they went up the thickly-carpeted steps that led to Montmartre, telling herself that she was the luckiest girl on earth, and only half believing it. She sat down to the table, between Roy and Monica, to a dinner that was to be more amusing than any vaudeville act she had ever witnessed.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Monica gives a never-to-be-forgotten lesson in gold-digging in the next chapter of this story.

READ THIS FIRST:

BOBBIE RANSOM, a little blond school teacher, is "movie struck" and wildly eager to break into pictures. Neither her father, a widower, nor ANDY JERROLD, who's in love with her, will lend her the money to take her to Hollywood. But she borrows five hundred dollars from the WIDOW PARKINS, who is to marry her father, and goes.

At MRS. MANGAN'S boarding house she meets Stella Delroy, an extra girl. Through Stella she gets a few days' work at Magnifica Studios, where ROY SCHULTZ, a famous director, takes a brief interest in her. She becomes great friends with his wife, LOTTIE, who is violently jealous of a Magnifica comedienne named MONICA MONT.

The assistant director, GUS MACCLOUD, falls in love with Bobbie and she with him. When her money runs low, and her courage, too, he lends her money on some of her jewelry given her by Andy and Aunt Gertrude, and he promises her a part in the first movie he is given to direct.

Then she begins to hear queer stories about him. Lottie tells her that he has a woman who is divorcing him. She blames him, too, for taking Roy with him on "wild" parties at the home of Monica. Stella drinks poison, leaving behind her a story of failure and of an unhappy love affair with Gus. His wife finally divorces him, but he does not mention it to Bobbie, who hears the news from Lottie.

Then, when he offers Bobbie a part in a movie and makes love to her, without saying anything about ever wanting to marry her, she refuses the part and drops him flat. Andy telephones her to come home and marry him, telling her that he has bought her old home from her father. But she says she won't get a job in a Hollywood book store, having spent all her money on clothes. One day Gus drops into the store and, purely as a business proposition, offers her a part in a movie. She takes it.

Then Roy Schultz gives her another part and a better one. Gus tells her that he urged Roy to do it. Later he and Bobbie become engaged. One afternoon Roy calls Bobbie into his office to talk to her about Lottie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER LVII

There was something fine and honest and good about Roy Schultz. He couldn't have been the great director he was without it.

And whatever it was, it shone in his lean, dark, clever face now as he faced Bobbie across the shining glass top of his desk.

"I've been trying to see Lottie for a week," he said. "I've been up to the house, but she won't see me. She won't answer me on the telephone, and she sends my letters back to me, ignoring it. I told you she was living in our house, didn't I?"

As a matter of fact, he hadn't said a word about it. But Bobbie had seen Lottie twice within the few days, and knew that Roy had turned over the Beverly Hills house to her, and had gone to live at the Hollywood-Plaza hotel.

"I wish you'd go and talk to her a little," Roy went on, lighting a cigarette. "Maybe you could get over to her the things I want her to know. She ought to realize that I haven't committed a crime just because I had supper at Monica Mont's a couple of times. All she has to do is slip once in a while, if she only know it. And I didn't take such a terrible flop as she thinks I did. Monica was cute and she amused me. That was about the size of our so-called love affair."

Bobbie looked doubtfully at him with her big tope eyes. Lottie had refused to talk about Roy, or even mention his name, since that first Saturday night she had seen her in the Hollywood book store.

"I don't know, Roy," she said slowly. "You know I'd do anything in the world to bring you and Lottie together. But she's so queer and quiet lately. She's told me a couple of times that she'd rather not talk about you when I've tried to say something."

Roy lifted his cap from his head, looked at it absently, and then put it back. It was a habit of his to fuss with that worn old brown cap when he was thinking hard. Bobbie had seen him do it dozens of times when he was trying to plan a scene out on the lot.

"Well, I know she's getting ready to divorce me," he said hopelessly. "And I don't suppose anybody can talk her out of doing it. It doesn't mean anything to her that I've been true to her for years and years. All she can think of is that I acted like a blamed fool over Monica, for a while." Then his expression changed suddenly. "Say, that reminds me. I've got a date to take Monica out to supper tonight. Will you and Gus go along?"

Bobbie nodded and went off to her green-and-yellow chintz dressing room to change into her street clothes.

"I'll find Gus and we'll come up here for you," she called to Roy as she went out.

How like a man, she thought, as she opened the door at the foot of the stairs and crossed the doorway to the dressing rooms. Doing his best to get back into his wife's good graces, and making dates with his light of love at the same time!

How weak men were, after all! Any woman who flapped her eyelashes at them could attract them, and make fools of them. The strongest man was in the hands of the slightest woman, provided she had heard her husband say "I love me," and that her lips said "Kiss me!"

Monica was waiting for the three of them when they went up the steps to her little apartment at seven o'clock.

"I'm all ready!" she sang out gaily to them from the davenport where she was sitting, when Winnie, her new maid, let them in.

Monica's idea of being "ready" for any and all occasions was to have a shaker of cocktails mixed and chilling.

There was one now on the painted tea wagon drawn up before her couch, and there were glasses on it, too, and a gray stone jug of "agnypa," the orange-colored liquor that she went down to Chinatown to buy.

Bobbie looked around the apartment as she held her cocktail glass in her fingers. More and more, it showed signs of Monica's new wealth.

There was a hand-embroidered Chinese tapestry above the mantelpiece. Blue and scarlet and black and gold, it fairly blazed out from the wall against which it was hung. A wood fire flickered in the grate, and Monica had flung incense into the flames.

There were orange and yellow lustre bowls around the room, and they were filled with fresh violets and lilies of the valley. Bobbie wondered who had sent them to Monica. She knew she never had bought them. Of course, Roy, who listed Monica spending money on anything as useless as flowers!

"They smell just like a funeral, don't they?" she asked as Bobbie per her face down to them, to breathe their delicate, woody fragrance. "I just hate fresh flowers around the house. But Ted Piper sent them, so I couldn't throw them out."

As she said the last sentence she gave Roy a narrow look, as if she wanted to see if the mention of Ted Piper's name would make him jealous.

Bobbie glanced at him, too. But he went on with his cocktail, and his face did not change. It remained as blank as the face of a wooden Indian—the kind that used to stand outside cigar stores in the dear dead days beyond recall.

"Good cockles, Monica! Your uncle another," he said, holding up his glass to her. "Gosh, but it's nice and snug up here. What do you say to our going over to Marchetti's for a nice ravioli and cheese and fixings, and having a bite up here?"

But Monica shook her head with its blue-black scallops of hair, and her bright blue eyes snapped be-lieve cockles. "Yes, I can see that you're all dressed up, but I can see that you're all dressed up," he said drily.

Anyone, with half an eye, could have seen that. For Monica, in addition to what she wore, a "back-ground" dress of this black chiffon, was wearing about six yards of large pink imitation pearls, a near-diamond brooch as big as a police gold bracelet set with colored stones, and about a half pound of rouge and powder.

"I hear that you're getting to be a great success," she said rather sourly to Bobbie. "I hear that Roy and Gus are just more than making you."

"Well, they've each given me a part in a picture, if that's what you call success," Bobbie answered her quickly, as she set her untouched drink down on the tea-wagon.

She had found out that drink didn't make her happy—that it didn't make anyone happy, but that it made most people sick and silly—and so she had stopped taking it.

"Of course, it's success," Monica
